

Water Leakage

(6B Zoran Chiu)

Yesterday was Sunday. I stayed alone at home. After lunch, Mum asked me to do some housework on the telephone, so I started to wash the dishes. I was very unhappy because I was very tired. Suddenly, the telephone rang.

It was my classmate who called me to chat with her. We kept chatting about computer games and the housework. I turned on the television and started to eat my snacks. We were very happy, so we kept chatting for three hours. I was very tired, so I forgot to do the housework. It was because I was so tired after chatting with my classmate for three hours, so I slept on the sofa. Suddenly, I heard some sound, it was mum. She blamed me, "You see! The kitchen is flooded with water!" The water kept running out of the kitchen because I did not turn off the water tap.

Finally, my mum blamed me, "You are not allowed to play computer games for a month since you did a bad job. You are lazy and careless! And you must clean up the floor of the kitchen before you sleep!"

From this incident, I have learnt a lesson that I should not forget to do housework and I should be responsible.
